Inspection Report
Stanford Research Institute
Contract 6681

The major activities included more remote reviewing experiments and preparation for a complete battery of medical tests. Remote viewing experiments between Mr. Price in San Francisco and Dr. Puthoff in Costa Rica were performed. These data are currently being evaluated but appears to have some good information but mostly noise. A suggested protocol for operational remote viewing experiment has been formulated. It is expected that an operation oriented remote viewing experiment of a real target will be completed during the month of July. Data on an electrically recorded pendulum experiment has been accumulated for the past month. The data is suggestive of positive psychokinetic interaction for a definitive result.

Medical tests of the subjects are being arranged at the Palo Alto Environmental Medical Facility. This is a large medical clinic which specializes in measurements of the medical effects of unusual environments such as industrial noise, acceleration, etc. As such they have the ability to test many functions and senses of an individual well beyond the normal range. Also a mood indication test card has been formulated to describe the subjects before and after experiments. In general the planning of medical and psychological tests appears to be about complete and will be implemented.
